SUBJECT: Extension and modifications to the Sunstone Pipeline Open Season

In response to requests from several parties, Williams and TransCanada are exploring moving up the in service date of the project from November 2011 to June 2011. The project team believes the earlier in-service date is achievable subject to timely execution of adequate precedent agreements. In addition we are considering modifications to the precedent agreement terms and conditions to offer, among other things, a negotiated rate option for a portion of the Sunstone capacity. The close of the Sunstone open season will be extended to May 30, 2008 as we work through these refinements with prospective shippers.

We would also like to announce that the open season will soon commence for the Blue Bridge Pipeline project. Blue Bridge Pipeline will provide takeaway capacity from Stanfield, Oregon, the terminus of the Sunstone Pipeline, to markets in the Pacific Northwest. The Blue Bridge open season is expected to conclude May 30, 2008, consistent with the timing of the Sunstone open season.
